Petersburg Has Bad Fire

Petersburg, Sept. 7—An early hour this morning fire broke out in "Scotty" Stewart's building adjoining Hogue's big store, and owing to the inadequate fire-fighting facilities, spread and destroyed everything within reach of the flames. When at last it was extinguished it was found that the loss aggregated close to $50,000.00 with insurance of not to exceed one-fifth of that amount. Hogue's store and the large stock of general merchandise it contained was of course the greatest loss. Besides these, the Stewart building and Joe Webber's stock; Dr. Pryor's drug store and newly installed stock; the shoe shop; the restaurant buildings and half-a-dozen or so cabins or smaller buildings were consumed.

Fortunately there wasn't much wind, or Hadland's building, which was only barely saved after a hard fight, and Reeling's store would both have gone.

Jack Lindsay, of Wrangell, owned the drug store building and the shoe shop, and will be a heavy loser.

Already lumber for new buildings to take the place of those destroyed has been ordered, and all will be rebuilt.

Petersburg To Have Saloon

At the session of the District Court at Juuet Tuesday, Judge Lyons ordered a license issued to Jack Hadland for a saloon at Petersburg. It is reported that there will be applications at the next term of court for one, and possibly two more saloon licenses for the same town.

Cash Coulter is out with a paper today raising money to build a hunting camp on Gutt Island.

Capt. Johnnie Katzenjammer Kolb and der pattleship Prosit are at St. Johns harbor on a deer hunt. George Sylvester went along as Hans and Fritz.

Wrangell May Be The Place

While the lighthouse tender Heather was in port Monday of this week, Capt. Ellicott, superintendent of this district, looked the waterfront over with view of possibly locating headquarters for the recently created Alaska lighthouse district here.

He is of the opinion that those headquarters should be in South-eastern Alaska, and made the statement while here that without a doubt Wrangell possessed the best natural advantages for a site, the harbor being the finest in the entire region.

It is most sincerely to be hoped that the decision is made in favor of this place, as the selection would mean that we should have all the district offices here. Wrangell should get busy and see what she can do, if anything, to induce the decision being made in our favor.

Gasoline Takes A Jump

Poor old John D is evidently figuring on securing a better seat in the hereafter by endowing another church or college, so to be sure to have money enough in the bank to cash the check he has decided to boost the price of gasoline. As the result, case gasoline has jumped 25 cents per case in the local market. Of course the consumers are kicking, but what's the use.

Remove An Appendix

Wednesday morning, Dr. Dawes assisted by Dr. Shurick performed an operation on Mrs. Johnnie Keskunk, and removed her appendix. The woman had been ailing for some time and had been able to get but temporary relief, so Dr. Dawes decided that her only hope was in an operation. Part of the upstairs at the Patenaude building was secured as a temporary hospital, and the operation successfully performed as above stated.

INSURGENTS AND POPULISTS

To say that the insurgency of 1910 is merely a passing recrudescence of the populism of 1892 comforts a good many souls that are sadly needing comfort nowadays. The Populist platform described the gold standard as a "vast conspiracy against mankind, organized on two continents;" demanded immediate free and unlimited coinage of silver, and a "speedy" increase of the circulating medium "to not less than fifty dollars per capita," or double what it then was. Since then, without free coinage of silver, the circulating medium has advanced to thirty-five dollars per capita, and the coincidental rise of commodity prices has scarcely proved beneficial to the poor. The Populists demanded Government ownership of railroad and telegraph lines and endorsed the boycott in labor disputes.

Compare this with the platform of the Insurgents, whose chief demand is that tariff schedules shall no longer be dictated by protected trusts which benefit by high duties. As against government ownership of railroads they want reasonable government regulation. As against the reclamation of lands held by aliens and by corporations in excess of industrial needs the Insurgents want corporations to keep out of politics. On the one hand we have highly imaginative proposals by persons who didn't know what ailed them. On the other hand we have a practical and essentially very conservative protest against certain tangible, remediable abuses.—Saturday Evening Post.

The official visit of Judge Cushman and his party to the west, Alaska's long neglected region, has had a splendid influence for good, according to the reports reaching Seward. Many petty cases were disposed of, which would not justify the large expense involved in trying them in Valdez. New citizens by the score were taken in under the American flag, adequate instructions given to United States commissioners, and the voyage of the officers of the law has had a wholesome effect generally. This is not meant to imply that residents of the west are less orderly and law-abiding than those in other parts of the country. On the contrary, considering the cosmopolitan population of the region and its remoteness from courts and court adjuncts, the prevalence of crime is very small indeed.—Seward Gateway.

If the rip-roaring reception that the West tendered "Teddy" on his recent trip can be considered a criterion, it would appear that Roosevelt is anything but the "down-and-out" some of the non-insurging Republicans would have us believe.

Twenty-seven families of natives residing at Metlakatla have decided to withdraw from the Father Duncan colony and establish a settlement of their own. They have appealed to the superintendent of native schools in Alaska for a teacher, saying that their children are growing up in ignorance.

L. E. Bayles, who claims an exhaustive knowledge of Alaska, has written the Seattle chamber of commerce that the Kuskokwim river is navigable at the present time for ocean going vessels of 1000 tons burden.

Louis Johnson, a young electrician of the Tanana, has invented and practically perfected a system of wireless telephony. He has interested Edison in the contrivance and is now on his way east to perfect his invention in the Edison shops at Newark, N. J.

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary, (G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.) surpasses the old International as much as that book exceeded its predecessor. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built. The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The definitions have been rearranged and amplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The etymology, synonyms, pronunciation, have received un-earmarked scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fullness and clearness. In size of vocabulary, in richness of general information, and in convenience of consultation, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.

Freight Clerk Goes Crazy

This morning at five o'clock Dr. L. O. Sloan was awakened by a telephone message from Douglas, announcing the fact that there was a sick man aboard the Dolphin, and requesting the doctor to meet the boat when she arrived here. When the steamer docked, Dr. Sloane was on hand and learned that Freight Clerk J. W. Corcoran had suddenly been seized with a delusion bordering on insanity. The poor fellow was taken to St. Ann's hospital, but nothing could be done for him there, so he was removed to the jail in the federal building. Corcoran thinks that he should be somewhere to take part in a lawsuit for the recovery of the sum of $25,000. His faving is probably of a temporary character.

This noon the man's condition was so much improved that he will probably be able to take the steamer for the south upon her arrival tomorrow.—Juneau Record.

A Relic Of Boom Days

Donald Sinclair was exhibiting a relic of the Klondike rush days here in Wrangell, this week in the shape of a copy of the Stikine River Journal of June, 1899. J. R. McKeand was the editor of the Journal, a well printed sheet the size of the Sentinel. Several of Wrangell's present day business houses were represented in the advertising columns, but the greater number have sought other locations.

Cheney is prepared to do photo work of all kinds.

Patenaude carries the best in Cigars, Tobaccos, Pipes, and Smokers' supplies in general.

Jack Worden and Harry Gartley each brought home a goose as the result of their hunt Sunday.

Fred Stackpole and his fishing crew were in town over Sunday. They are fishing for the Lake Bay cannery and report good, big hauls.

"Bill" Downing, Harry Coulter, Leo McCormack and Mr. Gray, who had been out after geese on Brown's Island, returned the beginning of the week.

George Skelton and wife, Miss Lowe, Christine Lemieux, Herb Lowe and Otto Hoistad spent Sunday at Farm Island. They report a good time in spite of the rain.

"Jim" Wheeler is getting over his stiff-necked condition resulting from losing his beauty spot.

Dr. and Mrs. Shurick and Dr. Daves were out on a duck and goose hunt Friday to Monday. They report first-class sport, and what is more, they brought game home to show for it.

The power boat Limit, owned by A. L. Page, won the long distance race from Ketchikan to Vancouver. She did the distance in 58 hours.

"Dad" Inman and Ed. Weber are back from their fishing trip. While away they fished in Snake creek, Toms creek, Pats creek and Conks creek, and made big catches in all of them. Are Shipping Cohoes

Oscar Nicholson has branched out into the fish shipping business, having sent his initial consignment of salmon, cohoes, on the Humboldt. In the event of there being any money in the venture, he will ship on every boat.
